

ABSTRACT

Additional circuitry is provided over a shared-LUT logic circuit to allow functions of different input characteristics to share a logic element which was conventionally illegal. More restrictive circuitry may be provided over a shared-LUT logic circuit to allow functions with particular input characteristics.